September 24 Regional Meeting minutes
The Sept. 24 Regional Meeting of the Chicago Dental Society convened at the Drury Lane, Oakbrook Terrace, at 9:05 a.m., local time, with CDS President H. Todd Cubbon presiding.

Attention was directed to the minutes of the meeting of Wednesday, April 23. Inasmuch as the official minutes of the meeting of Wednesday, April 23 were published in the May/June issue of the CDS Review, a motion was entertained to dispense with reading them.

MOVED by Dr. Barbara Mousel, seconded by Dr. Thomas Machnowski, and carried to dispense with reading the Wednesday, April 23 minutes at this time.

MOVED by Dr. William Kort, seconded by Dr. Alan Shapiro, and carried to accept the minutes of the meeting of Wednesday, April 23.

There were no reports of the Board, Standing or Special Committees. There was no Unfinished Business to report. There was no New Business to report.

With no further business, Dr. Cubbon called upon Dr. Hugo Bertagni to introduce Edwin T. Parks, DMD, MS, who presented a program entitled “Mold and Maggots 101: An Introduction to Forensic Dentistry.”

The meeting was adjourned at 1:45 p.m.

Dr. Sullivan wins election to ADA second vice president
CDS member Tom Sullivan was elected and installed as second vice president of the American Dental Association (ADA) during the Annual Session in San Antonio in October.

Dr. Sullivan served as president of the Illinois State Dental Society in 2003 and has been active in both ISDS and the ADA as a volunteer. He practices general dentistry in Westchester.

As second vice president, Dr. Sullivan will serve on the ADA Board of Trustees, which formulates and reviews policies and programs and makes recommendations to the members of the Association’s governing body, the House of Delegates.

“My goal is to work closely with (ADA First Vice President) Andy Elliott to set up a communication system or network with dental leaders from the House of Delegates in all the 17 Districts,” Dr. Sullivan said, explaining his goals for 2009. “Expansion of the ADAs electronic Delegates Digest tool is another goal; keeping members of the House of Delegates informed as to the association’s business is the paramount goal.

“We don’t want anyone to be able to say that they didn’t know what was going on at the ADA Board level. That will be a tough task, but one we’ll take one step at a time.”

Upon completion of his term as second vice president, Dr. Sullivan will automatically become first vice president in October 2009.

“Going through the process of a national ADA election is stressful and exhausting. Even after 16 years of experience, it is very humbling to stand in front of 464 delegates and address them,” Dr. Sullivan said. “I am forever thankful that this journey was a team effort. The 8th District of Illinois is a great group of professional colleagues. To represent ALL of the ADAs House of Delegates at the Board level is a great honor and a responsibility I will not take lightly.”

CDS members named to ADA leadership positions
The ADA announced that CDS member and North Suburban Branch Director Susan Becker Doroshow will chair the Council on Membership. In addition, CDS associate members Drs. Joseph Hagenbruch and Brandon Maddox will serve as chairs of the Council on Dental Benefit Programs and the Council on New Dentists, respectively.

Their terms will conclude at the end of the 2009 annual session.

Renew your membership, attend MWM for free
Don’t forget that 2009 is a re-licensure year in Illinois, and Illinois dentists are required to obtain 48 hours of continuing education credit by September. The 2009 Midwinter Meeting is a great way to grab those last few credits you need before the deadline.

CDS urges you to renew your 2009 dues online before pre-registration for the Midwinter Meeting closes. (CDS tripartite members can visit www.isds.org to renew; CDS Associate Members can visit www.cds.org to renew their membership.)

By renewing your membership for 2009 it enables you to be eligible to pre-register for the 2009 Midwinter Meeting in Category A (free registration). When you pre-register online, you can register for your classes and special events happening during the Midwinter Meeting. In addition, by pre-registering you are entitled to receive the rebate coupon, which can be submitted after the meeting with proof of purchase from a 2009 Midwinter Meeting exhibitor at the 2009 meeting.

Download MWM course handouts at www.cds.org
Course handouts for scientific programs for the 2009 Midwinter Meeting will be available online only. To download PDF files of course handouts prepared by participating speakers, please visit www.cds.org/mwm from Nov. 1 through the end of March. Plan ahead.

Download and print your own copy of the handouts of those courses for which you pre-registered while at home or in the office, review them, and bring them with you. Please note there will be no printing stations available on site at McCormick Place, nor will printed handouts be available in the class rooms.
November 5 Regional Meeting minutes

The Nov. 5 Regional Meeting of the Chicago Dental Society convened at the Drury Lane in Oakbrook Terrace at 9:08 a.m., local time, with CDS President H. Todd Cubbon presiding.

Attention was directed to the minutes of the meeting of Wednesday, Sept. 24. Inasmuch as the official minutes of the meeting of Wednesday, Sept. 24 had not yet been published in the CDS Review, a motion was entertained to dispense with reading and approving them until everyone has had the opportunity to review them.

MOVED by Dr. Thomas Machnowski, seconded by Dr. James Discipio, and carried to dispense with reading the Wednesday, Sept. 24 minutes at this time.

There were no reports of the Board, Standing or Special Committees.

There was no Unfinished Business to report.

Dr. Cubbon introduced Dr. Loren Feldner, who spoke to the group about the importance of DENT-IL-PAC and that contributions to the PAC are needed. He noted that the voluntary contribution to DENT-IL-PAC will be included in the dues statement from ISDS.

Dr. Cubbon reported that the nominating petitions for the 2009 officers had been duly filed in the CDS central office, and their names duly published in the May/June 2008, July/August 2008, and September/October 2008 issues of the CDS Review, in accordance with the bylaws.

He further reported that since not more than one candidate had been nominated for each elective office, in accordance with CDS Bylaws, the secretary would cast a single unanimous ballot on behalf of all the respective candidates for office.

MOVED by Dr. Walter Lamacki, seconded by Dr. William Kleiber, and carried that a single unanimous ballot be cast on behalf of all the respective candidates for office.

Dr. Cubbon then congratulated Treasurer-elect David Fulton Jr., Vice President-elect John Gerding, Secretary-elect Ian Elliott and Michael Stablein who will become president-elect.

He noted that these officers would be installed Sunday, Nov. 9, along with, Dr. David Kumamoto, who will assume the office of the president. These officers will assume their respective duties Jan. 1 and will continue through Dec. 31, 2009, in accordance with the fiscal year. Dr. Cubbon noted that the Chicago Dental Society’s 50-year graduates will also be recognized at that time.

Dr. Cubbon extended an open invitation to all CDS members, their families and friends to join them on this occasion at the Chicago Hilton & Towers Hotel, to personally congratulate them and wish them well while enjoying refreshments.

With no further business, Dr. Cubbon called upon Dr. Hugo Bertagni to introduce Mr. Gary Zelesky, who presented a program entitled “The Passion-Driven Practice.”

The meeting was adjourned at 1:45 p.m.

(And why you should, too!)
‘Groupness’

In my installation speech a year ago, I said that change is a constant we must recognize and work with and around. Your CDS Board changes four of its 14 members every year. Is this a good or bad system? The lack of continuity of a long-term unified voice can, at times, equally stall change and force a greater dependence on staff for decision making instead of decision assisting. This is an organizational weakness, in my eyes. However, a board without change can lead to an “if it ain’t broke don’t fix it” mentality, the opposite type of weakness that can be fatal to the organization.

One need look no further than the words of Ralph Burger who headed The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company (A&P) from the 1930s until after World War II. A&P grew to become one of the largest companies in the world on his philosophy, “You can’t argue with 100 years of success.” What Burger failed to understand was the changed economy and attitude of the American consumer after the war. A&P, from the 1960s to the 1980s declined to virtual nonexistence. Constant, stable leadership doomed the company. Oxford University psychologist, Henri Tajfel, called this “groupness.” It is the tendency of animals (yes, humans) to form “in groups” which, when encountering individuals from outside the group, default to hostility toward the outsiders. NASA fell into this trap. After the two Shuttle disasters, the official report read, “External criticism and doubt reinforced the will to ‘impose the party line vision on the environment, not to reconsider it.’ This in turn led to ‘flawed decision making, self deception, introversion and diminished curiosity about the world outside the Perfect Place (NASA).’”

With the CDS Board’s constant turnover, our potential weakness may be our strength. It may be, at least partially, responsible for CDS’s and our Midwinter Meeting’s phenomenal success. Our system helps defuse groupness.

Our editor, Walter Lamacki, in his October editorial, questioned aspects of the three party Coalition that CDS utilizes to select its leadership. Has the Coalition run its course? Is it a dinosaur? I don’t think so. The Coalition is similar to the familiar “primary” process used in American politics, except we have three equal parties (groups). Each year one of the groups (Independent Dental Organization, Members Group, Progressive Club), in a three-year rotation, votes for a candidate for the general election. This candidate has to be confirmed for candidacy by the other two groups, sort of like the Electoral College—a bit of a stretch. Having received the endorsement of all three groups, this candidate is voted on by the general membership at the November CDS Regional Meeting.

Is there a need for change? Yes, we need to change the percentage of the membership that participates in the “groups.” Increasing numbers will strengthen CDS. Let me stress that all the groups are open and welcome new members, you only need to sign up. And “no,” I don’t advocate elimination of the Coalition process. It provides three steady streams of the volunteers required to meet the manpower demands of our Midwinter Meeting and to have it remain the global leader in educational dental meetings that it is. As with the CDS Board this also helps to ward off “groupness.”

As my term as your president ends, I want to thank you for giving Pat and me the extraordinary opportunity to represent the Chicago Dental Society. A year ago I outlined several goals for 2008. First was “not to run CDS’s ship onto a shoal.” I think, and I hope you agree, that CDS’s ship is afloat and upright. Another was to make the MWM more user friendly for our changing demographics. 2009 will see the institution of a child day care program at the MWM. I recommended that we obtain outside professional evaluation to assist in positioning CDS for the future. This analysis is underway. I also promised to follow the advice of Bill Parcells and to, “Don’t let good enough be good enough.” The 2008 Midwinter Meeting set an all-time attendance record and was, indisputably, the best-attended dental meeting in North America this year. This was accomplished not by me, but with the leadership of General Chair Rich Holba and Program Chair Phil Fijal, CDS’s incredibly dedicated staff, the tireless work of your Board of Directors and the member volunteers that the Coalition provides. Thank you, thank you, thank you.

Finally, I am happy to report that I’ve... GONE FISHING.

Relax, you can trust your professional protection to Cincinnati Insurance

As a dentist, you know how important it is to put your clients at ease. The Cincinnati Insurance Companies know you have plenty to think about—caring for your clients, managing a successful practice and staying active in your community.

With a professional liability policy from The Cincinnati Insurance Companies, you can stay focused on your practice, counting on your policy to:

- apply on an “occurrence basis” instead of on a claims made basis
- require your consent prior to settling professional liability claims
- cover your corporation or partnership, employed and independent contractor hygienists and dental assistants at no additional charge. Separate limits of insurance give each individual insured superior protection
- offer optional prior-acts (tail) coverage to facilitate the move from claimsmade to our occurrence form.

You can also feel confident knowing that Cincinnati is rated A++ by A.M. Best Co., the highest financial strength rating available earned by less than 2 percent of all property casualty insurer groups.

Johanna Manasse describes herself as a doer and a joiner. So it only made sense that when she married Robert Manasse—a man who has long been involved in organized dentistry—she found herself studying up on oral health and patient education.

But it was at the urging of Pat Cubbon—whose husband Todd is another veteran of organized dentistry—that Mrs. Manasse joined the Alliance of the Chicago Dental Society (ACDS) in 2001. The group of dental spouses was dedicated to promoting oral health and well being through dental education, scholarships for dental and dental hygiene students, and legislative support for dental political action groups.

“I’m of the belief that when you are blessed with talent and intelligence and the wherewithal to make a difference, you are joyfully obligated to share that blessing and pass it on,” Mrs. Manasse explained. “That’s what I do with the Alliance, I pass on the blessings Robert and I have received as members of the greater dental family in the best way I know how.”

She started by attending meetings, and took the office of historian in 2003 as a way to learn more about the organization. She attended state and national conferences, sought grants for social service projects, and called legislators when political issues stirred her soul.

“The more involved I became, the more educated I was about the legislative impact I could have to ensure my spouse’s chosen profession,” she said. “I’m confident enough to call my legislators about issues that concern me.”

Mrs. Manasse rose to the presidency in 2007, and took on the unusual task of leading ACDS members in a self-evaluation. Membership was shrinking, especially in relation to the number of members of the Chicago Dental Society. Alliance members’ needs and wants had changed over the years, as the demands on their time increased exponentially.

Mrs. Manasse challenged members to examine what the organization meant to them, what they had to contribute to the group, how and when they would be able to convene a meeting, and other logistical concerns.

“Rather than expending our energies in perpetuating ‘what we have always done,’ this year we explore our options,” she said in May 2007. “We begin by honoring the charter members and the vision they turned into action. We formulate the questions that must be answered in order to make informed decisions. We make decisions on what is best for the Alliance and its membership. We advocate and educate and engage our fellow members in those decisions, and then we implement.”

And so it was a bittersweet moment Sunday, Sept. 7, when Mrs. Manasse called for a vote to dissolve the Alliance. Moved by Mary Higgins, ACDS president 2004-05, seconded by Norine Bertagni, president 2002-03, and passed, “In accordance with its Constitution and Bylaws, be it resolved that: the dissolution of the Alliance of the Chicago Dental Society will be effective Dec. 31,
Excerpts from the President’s Report ~ Presented by ACDS President Johanna Manasse

Sept. 7, 2008

When I began this journey 16 months ago I still had high hopes and a fierce determination to give it one last shot—without ever really processing that it would indeed be the last shot. I challenged each one of the members to Just Do It, the Nike slogan of being victorious.

As the year progressed, there were moments when indeed we just did it and moments when we didn’t. But in putting together a retrospective of this year, I realized something wonderful. Despite this being our last year, we really did it, and we did it stupendously.

Here are some highlights:
We delivered 1,500 oral care kits for Senior Smiles in nursing homes throughout the greater Chicagoland area—and if we’d had 50,000 kits we could have delivered them, too.

We were awarded another Senior Smiles grant for this year, another 100 kits, to be distributed in collaboration with the DuPage Community Clinic.

We grew adept at e-mailing our members to keep them up-to-the-minute with important information, especially on the legislative front. As a result, more of us are involved in Dent-IL-Pac and AdPac. Frankly, some of us inform our dental spouses what’s happening and which legislator to call to support a particular bill.

At the Holiday Party, we raised $1,100 for our chosen charity, Restoration Ministries.

In January, after distributing thousands of flyers, we held our Dental Health Fair both to recruit more members and to complete our Keep Smiling Project. First started by Joan Ashby and Sherie Shapiro, that project has truly taken off. We had a team of 40 Alliance members and a Girl Scout troop filling bags, assembly-line fashion, with toothbrushes, toothpaste, floss, rinse, toys, crayons, coloring pages, socks, Beanie Babies, lip gloss, pens, nail polish—you name it we had it. We stuffed over 1,200 goody bags, which were distributed in February to emergency family crisis shelters.

We again awarded scholarships to a UIC dental student and four dental hygiene students.

Yet underneath all our activities there was a conversation that would not cease. Fewer and Fewer members came to meetings or volunteered to participate in a task. Even fewer were willing to accept a leadership position. We even had dropouts. We lost members. The conversation grew stronger, until it could not be silenced anymore.

On March 31, 2008, the ACDS Board met, per conference call, because trying to get everyone in one place at the same time has been a major challenge for several years already. And we reluctantly came to the conclusion that the time had come to close the ACDS doors and concentrate our Alliance activities on a statewide level.

I know we are still worthwhile. We still make a difference. We will still advocate for our husbands and wives in their pursuit of excellence in dentistry. We will still call (actually, we e-mail) our legislators to express our views and register our voting clout. We will still, when and where we can, bring educational materials to schools and childcare programs to encourage lifelong habits of brushing and flossing and rinsing. We will still pull out our checkbooks to make contributions and provide scholarships and give to community clinics.

We will still take care of the office payroll and the holiday staff gifts and we will listen when our partner recounts a particularly harrowing day in the clinic. We will still read the professional journals and the monthly ADA updates and the CDS Review. We know how to respond to our neighbors’ comments about amalgams and fluoridation and the pros and cons of sedation. We have learned the intricacies of dental insurance claim forms and how to give gentle responses to the public perception that all dentists are rich.

We will still pay our Alliance dues to the state and national Alliance and participate in those activities near and dear to our individual hearts. We are not quitters. We do see the world more expansively and acknowledge our changing roles in that world. We are agents of change.

Our world is much bigger now than it was 40 years ago when the Auxiliary came into existence. But our hearts are the same. That will never change.

Dear fellow Alliance members, thank you for touching my heart and being who you are.

2008; Any monies remaining after all expenses are paid are to be designated for Dental Health Education as approved by the ACDS Board of Directors.”

Though the vote was far from unanimous, the ayes had it.

“It’s bittersweet. No one likes to see one of our oldest and largest local components close,” said Krystine Hansen, executive director of the Alliance of the American Dental Association. But, she explained, the large geographic area that ACDS covers, combined with the competing demands on members’ time, make it difficult for large groups of people to get together. “The life cycle of the organization is inevitable.”

Once the difficult vote was decided, members of the Alliance continued their celebration of nearly four decades of activities related to the promotion of oral health in their communities and the enduring friendships that grew out of their work.

“I think we’ve made a remarkable bit of history, and I think we’ll go down in history. People will always remember what we did,” said past president (1974-75) Dorothy Unger.

Members of the Alliance recalled many years of service, with projects centered on dental health education, legislative action and community service.
Dental spouses joined and chose to lead the organization over the years because of their passion for these varied causes.

Many agreed that a long running puppet show was the Alliance’s most successful project. The story of Good King Sweettooth was written and presented by ACDS members in schools throughout the Chicago area to teach children about the dangers of eating too many sweets and not taking care of their teeth. Host schools received a book about oral health for their libraries and handouts for children to learn more about their teeth and gums.

“Those kids were so mesmerized by the story that when they would see us pack the puppets back into the suitcase they would worry that we were hurting them,” recalled Florence Gaisor, a charter member of the Alliance and one of the infamous “Golden Girls.” Mrs. Gaisor, along with Charlotte Sisson and the late Bernice Kolodzieczyk, traveled the country selling dental-themed items to raise money for scholarships and other oral health education activities.

“It was the camaraderie. We had so much fun,” Mrs. Gaisor said of her participation in Alliance activities. She and her friends anticipate monthly lunch dates to keep their relationships strong after the Alliance disbands.

Nancy Kort, who served as president of ACDS in 1987-88, vividly remembers why she joined the Alliance many years ago.

“Gwen Muller sat next to me at the first meeting I attended and invited me to join,” she said. “I enjoyed the meetings and the projects we took on and we had a good time. It made me feel welcome and everyone was kind.”

Karen Mantoan has only been active with the Alliance for a few years, but said she will miss the friendships she has made during that time. She currently leads ACDS’ Public Relations Committee.

“I joined because I was so impressed with the scholarships the Alliance offered and the money that was raised. All of the presidents have worked so hard,” she said. “But I will miss the friendships that develop. I feel like I learned a lot about dentistry from this group.”

Gracia Battistoni, who served as president in 1982-83, joined the Alliance because she believed in the mission: to augment the dentists’ efforts to provide dental education to the public. She said that performing with the puppet show took her to neighborhoods she would never have ventured into on her own, but the experience of working with the young audiences brought her tremendous satisfaction.

Joan Ashby, ACDS president in 1999-2000, echoed the importance of the Alliance’s mission. She has always found the dental education presentations she made most gratifying, and which she will continue to do even after the Alliance ceases. Her most recent educational effort in a shelter for battered women was personally fulfilling.

“Those women needed extra knowledge, and they were very appreciative of learning about how to care for their children better,” she said.

Sherie Shapiro, who served as president in 1996-97 and received the Kathryn Dundon Award at the Last Luncheon, said the event brought back a flood of memories. But she was especially proud of how the group had rallied to communicate with state legislators over the years.

Linda Manning found her interaction with young dental spouses most enjoyable.

“They are the future, and they will make the most impact,” said the 2003-04 president. “But their lives get very busy with dual careers and children. They are all so involved in so many things.”

While that is certainly the case, Ms. Hansen encouraged Alliance members to remain active with their state and national organizations.

“I’m hoping this is not the end,” she said. “At some point, a hearty group of people may decide to get together and do something again.”
Several Chicago Dental Society members were honored at the Illinois State Dental Society’s 144th Annual Session in St. Louis Sept. 11-14. Among them, Dr. Joseph Unger was sworn in as president. But there was also work to be done, as delegates from throughout Illinois voted on several measures; actions taken by the delegates included approval of a $20 increase in annual dues for ISDS members, bringing the total to $330 for 2009. Before considering the increase, delegates approved the 2009 budget with an estimated deficit of $220,680. The dues increase will close the budget gap by $97,750, reducing the deficit to $123,150. ISDS officials hope that unanticipated revenues and responsible spending will close the gap further.

“Budgeted deficits and actual year end deficits are often entirely different and difficult to accurately predict,” said CDS President H. Todd Cubbon, also an ISDS delegate. “The information provided did seem to justify a dues increase, in that there would have likely been an actual 2009 year end deficit without the increase, and the House agreed. It is my hope that, in these tough economic times, this increase will not adversely affect membership.”

In addition, delegates voted to make the Speaker of the House a delegate to the American Dental Association, ex-officio, as are the president, president-elect, vice president and secretary of ISDS. Once the business was behind them, delegates celebrated the accomplishments of outgoing ISDS President Keith Dickey, as well as the inauguration of Dr. Unger.

Dr. Unger is a 1985 graduate of the Loyola University College of Dental Surgery. He served as Englewood Branch president in 1995, and Program Chair of the 2001 Midwinter Meeting. Dr. Unger chose “Our Dental Family” as the theme for his presidential year, alluding to both the tradition of dentistry in his family and also the connection among all dental health professionals in Illinois. Dr. Unger’s father, Robert, and father-in-law, the late C.L. Friend Jr., served as presidents of ISDS in 1973 and 1986, respectively. Dr. Unger’s inauguration in September marked the first time in 100 years that a father and son have both been president of ISDS. Prior to that, G.V. (1871) and Arthur Black (1909) both served as president. Past presidents G.W. Dittmar (1920) and Peter Roberson (1999), his grandson, round out the list of first families.

“All of us in the Illinois State Dental Society are a family,” Dr. Unger said in his inaugural address. “We are a very diverse family composed of dental technicians, dental hygienists, dentists, dental students and dental hygiene students. We are some 7,600 strong and we have common goals as all families do and ours are to ‘encourage the improvement of the health of the public, to promote the art and science of dentistry and to represent the interest of the members of the profession and the public which we serve.’”

Dr. Unger urged all of his colleagues to recommit to the PANDA program—Prevent Abuse and Neglect through Dental Awareness. He asked members to care for the children, adults and senior citizens who need them most, both in the dental office and in their communities.

ISDS became part of the PANDA coalition in 1995, and members worked to make sure dental offices statewide received information on recognizing and reporting abuse. Reports by dentists increased for the period of 1996-2006.

“We are a fortunate group of people, and we as healthcare professionals have a responsibility to report suspected case of abuse and/or neglect. That is part of the deal we have for the privilege of being granted a license to practice in Illinois.”

ISDS officials hope that unanticipated revenues and responsible spending will close the gap further.

“Budgeted deficits and actual year end deficits are often entirely different and difficult to accurately predict,” said CDS President H. Todd Cubbon, also an ISDS delegate. “The information provided did seem to justify a dues increase, in that there would have likely been an actual 2009 year end deficit without the increase, and the House agreed. Dr. Cascio honored with Distinguished Member Award

Lifetime member of the Chicago Dental Society and past president of the Northwest Side Branch, Sam Cascio was honored with the Distinguished Member Award at the Illinois State Dental Society’s Annual Session in September.

The Distinguished Member Award recognizes significant civic, cultural, religious and other worthy humanitarian service to mankind and the profession.

A semi-retired dentist whose career has spanned 56 years, Dr. Casio has devoted his free time to the causes he holds most dear.

Dr. Cascio served as general chair of the capital fund drive and on the Board of Trustees for his alma mater, St. Mary’s University in Winona, MN. The school honored him with the LaSalle Award.

Dr. Cascio was also president of the Loyola Dental Alumni Association. When the school closed, he established a scholarship fund at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) College of Dentistry.

Dr. Cascio also served in leadership positions for numerous dental organizations, but turned his attention to ophthalmology when his late wife developed diabetic retinopathy and sought treatment at the UIC Eye Center. He has served on the Eye Fund Board since 1989.

8th District plays significant role in dues, budget debate

Fill in the blank. It’s the economy _________________.

by Will Conkis

The 149th House of Delegates filled in that blank and did more in American Dental Association’s Annual Session in San Antonio in October, against the backdrop of a Presidential election year, this fall’s erratic stock market, the credit crisis, a housing bubble burst and public concern about a worsening economy, which may be sinking into a deep recession.

Add to the mixture a record number of home foreclosures and the growing federal budget deficit and higher personal debt for Americans and it’s pretty obvious why the delegates made short work of a proposal to increase ADA spending in 2009 and paying for it with a dues increase.

In a 50.5 Yes to 49.5 No vote Oct. 20 in the Second Session of the House, the Preliminary Budget was sent back to the Board of Trustees to reduce spending and avoid a proposed dues increase of $14, from $498 to $512 per year for membership in the ADA.

In the end at the final session the following day and with the House clearly against the proposed budget, the Board reduced the budget by $1.9 million through cuts in the operating budget, which killed the need for a dues increase.

Long-time House observers said it’s been at least 15 years since a budget was sent back to the Board to be trimmed. Among the many District Delegations leading the effort to reject the proposed budget was the 8th District. H. Todd Cubbon, Chicago Dental Society president, made the motion to send the budget back to the Board.

“I think the House made a giant leap toward regaining its rightful control of the ADA. Those interested in the budget were in contact for most of 2008 and came to the House well informed and with a plan of action that we felt reflected the will of the membership and were successful in gaining majority support in the House,” Dr. Cubbon said, commenting on the 149th House.

The 2.8 percent dues increase was being proposed for dues stabilization and to help fund a proposed budget of $117,427,200 in expenses and estimated revenue of $115,927,850—leaving a shortfall of $1,499,350. Edward Leone Jr., ADA treasurer, commenting on the budget in the First House Session Oct. 17, said the dues increase was $1 less then the rate of inflation. The proposed budget expenditures were 2 percent higher then in 2008. Membership dues represent 47.3 percent of the revenue budget, according to the ADA.

Budget information supplied to delegates warned that reserves, down to a 35 percent level because of market fluctuation, could not be used to fund the increased spending and cover the deficit, a tactic used in previous years when dues increases were rejected by the House.

The opposition to the proposed budget and the dues increase surfaced after the First House Session at the Reference Committee on Budget, Business and Administrative Matters hearing on Oct. 18.

As testimony opened on Resolution 14, the budget resolution, and Resolution 15, the dues resolution, it quickly became apparent that a significant number of delegates were not inclined to just accept the budget and dues as presented by the Board.
Drs. Cubbon and Ron Testa, past CDS president, both of who took the point for the 8th District’s efforts against the proposed budget and dues increase, were among the overwhelming number of delegates to urge the Budget Reference Committee to recommend sending the budget back to the Board for revamping.

More then one delegate, including Drs. Cubbon and Testa, said it was inappropriate to increase spending and raise dues, what with dentists and their patients facing a worsening economy. Many of those same delegates described holding the line on dues and spending as symbolic, showing ADA will “tighten its belt just as the rank and file members must do in hard economic times.”

While urging the committee to oppose the dues increase, dentists from California reported 20-40 percent drops in their business.

Mark Feldman, outgoing ADA president and a past treasurer for the organization, told the committee the budget was responsible and included valuable programs that members need. He added that the dues increase was necessary to retain the programs and maintain “dues stabilization,” a philosophy of using predictable dues increases to avoid needing steeper catch-up raises.

While outnumbered by opponents of the proposed budget during the hearing, Dr. Feldman and other delegates supporting it and a dues hike apparently persuaded the committee, which recommended approval of the budget and the dues increase to the House.

“The Reference Committee deliberated the budget at length. The committee believes that the Board of Trustees presented a fiscally responsible budget with limited spending increases that provides great value to membership,” the committee stated in its report to the House.

In previous years with a favorable committee recommendation and the active support of the trustees, the proposed budget and the dues increase would have been carried in the House.

But this is no ordinary year.

“The Board had less influence on the House this year. This is largely due to the history of heavy handed treatment from the dais microphone,” Dr. Cubbon said. ■

8th District resolution sets benchmark for ADA dues

Resolutions presented by the 8th District in the 149th House of Delegates enjoyed success at the American Dental Association’s Annual Session in San Antonio.

Among the success stories was Resolution 17RC, adopted in the 2nd Session of the House Oct. 20 by an overwhelming majority. The resolution established a benchmark for dues stabilization by tying increases to the prior three-year average of the Consumer Price Index.

The resolution directs the Board of Trustees to develop budgets and manage the ADA’s finances and reserves in accordance with the long-term financial strategy of dues stabilization, which is designed to avoid steep raises in dues through predictable increases at or below inflation.

The strategy has never been a green light for automatic inflationary dues increases; adding the index provides the Board a standard for determining a proposed dues increase. The House is required to establish dues for the coming year at the final session of the legislative body by a two-thirds vote of the delegates voting.

The other successful 8th District initiative was Resolution 44B. It calls for the ADA to identify the various impediments at federal and state levels that make it difficult for facilities to bill for services provided by dentists who volunteer their services in publicly funded clinics and similar facilities, and then work to make necessary legislative or regulatory adjustments to remove the impediments.

Other ADA House actions

Resolution 37RC

Called on the ADA Commission on Dental Accreditation to accept and implement the Report of the Task Force on CODA and report back to the House in 2209 detailing progress on the implementation of the recommendations of the Task Force on the accreditation process. House action: approved

Resolution 39RC-1

Supports a pilot program for Community Dental Health Coordinators under supervision of dentists and authorizes up to $5 million in funding, although that funding is expected to come from outside sources and not the ADA. House action: approved

Resolution 51RC

Urges ADA to take all necessary steps to lobby Congress and Department of Agriculture to institute a ban on the use of food stamps to purchase soda pop and other sugar based beverages, which derive more than 51 percent of their calories from sugar or natural sweeteners. House action: approved

Resolution 69B

Directs the Council on Access, Prevention and Interprofessional Relations to assess ADA programs, projects and activities specific to access to care and similar activities conducted outside of the ADA and develop a draft access Strategic to be presented to the 2009 House. House action: approved

Resolution 70RC-1

Urged the Joint Commission on National Dental Examinations to modify or replace the current examination to make it secure and to validate its use for quantitative scoring or before Nov. 1, 2011. House action: approved

Resolution 80

Allows a member to access Survey Center results on the ADA web site at no charge to members. House action: approved
The rain held off Oct. 25, giving way to another Spooky Zoo Spectacular at the Lincoln Park Zoo. The zoo, which holds the event for Chicago children to have a safe place to trick-or-treat, hosted nearly 35,000 people that afternoon.

The Lincoln Park Zoo took a more healthy twist on treats and education this year than in the past. Amongst the fall-colored trees, CDS and Crest Oral-B teamed up for their 12th year to provide oral care products and health tips to zoo guests.

Bundled under their winter coats, trick-or-treaters dressed as cowgirls, animals and superheroes and braved the cold to learn healthy habits and pick up a few Halloween treats along the way.

Students from the University of Illinois at Chicago College of Dentistry and the Kennedy-King College dental hygiene program volunteered to distribute toothbrushes and toothpaste.

Eight dental New Year’s resolutions

by Rachel Azark

While most of your New Year’s resolutions probably consist of getting more exercise and kicking a bad habit, maintaining a healthy smile should be at the top of your list. Below are eight ways to kick-start a new or improved oral health routine.

1. Know your oral health needs.
   - Maintaining knowledge of the medicines you take, the foods you eat most frequently, and your daily habits are all important to your oral health. Changes in your overall health can affect your oral health, so make sure to notify your dentist of any differences from your last visit.

2. Commit to a daily routine.
   - After considering what your health habits are, talk to your dentist about an effective routine to do every day to take care of your teeth.

3. Use products with fluoride.
   - Fluoride strengthens children’s teeth, and in adults it helps prevent tooth decay. Fluoride can be found in many toothpastes and mouthwashes, so read the labels.

4. Brush and floss.
   - You should brush your teeth at least twice a day and floss at least once a day. Not brushing and flossing can lead to plaque buildup on teeth, which can lead to gum disease and cavities.

5. Limit sugary snacks.
   - Try to limit your intake of sugary snacks to limit the exposure your teeth get from the acid that breaks down the enamel surface of the tooth. If you do eat something sugary, make sure to brush your teeth or chew sugarless gum afterward.

6. Quit using tobacco in any form.
   - Using tobacco products stains your teeth and can cause bad breath, not to mention the longer-term diseases that can occur like oral cancer, gingivitis, periodontitis and tooth decay.

7. Examine your mouth weekly.
   - Even if you visit your dentist twice a year, it is important to look at your own mouth weekly to spot changes. Look for swollen gums, chipped teeth, discolored teeth and sores or lesions on your gums, cheeks and tongue. This is especially important to do if you use tobacco products.

8. Visit your dentist regularly.
   - It is recommended you see your dentist at least two times a year; however, some people with a history of cavities or gum disease, smokers and people with suppressed immune systems are more likely to have dental problems. Discuss with your dentist how often you should visit the office.

Changes in your overall health can affect your oral health, so make sure to notify your dentist of any differences from your last visit.
Let the numbers talk

Averages. For more than 25 years, Mark Petersen, a partner in a large Moline accounting firm, has been using them to enable his dentist clients to become above average in their individual practices. Using income and expense data submitted by nine dental clients, Mr. Petersen prepares average receipt and expense information for distribution to those participating. He also ranks each dentist in terms of how they compare in four general categories, providing practical and relevant numerical data designed to help contributors evaluate their practice in relation to local colleagues.

And help it does. One participating dentist, who has been a part of the co-op since its inception, uses the information annually to evaluate his practice and if he needs to refine his practice. In particular, he watches the line items for overhead and salaries most closely. Though his goal for overhead is predictable (keeping it as low as possible) he uses the salary data in an unexpected way. With salaries averaging 25-30 percent of net patient receipts, he aims to insure his salary line is higher than average in order to keep his staff happy and from moving to another practice. The strategy seems to work; some staff members have been with the practice for more than 20 years. The stability has contributed to the overall health of the practice and its number one ranking in gross income per hours of production for many years.

Mr. Petersen’s report provides specific data in four general expense areas: compensation and benefits; general operations (supplies, lab fees, insurance, and equipment rental and repairs); occupancy (rent, depreciation, interest); and administration (phone, dues and subscriptions, promotion, travel, auto expense). Each general expense area is broken into subcategories (indicated in parentheses), totaled and shown as a percentage of net patient receipts. By comparing their own financial data to the averages provided by Mr. Petersen, participating dentists can quickly see where their own numbers are out of line and move to do something about it.

In addition to individual line items, the report also includes the average hours of production for all nine practices enabling Mr. Peterson to easily determine the average gross income per hours of production, average expenses per hour of production and average net income per hour of production. These bottom line figures provide additional benchmarking data for participating dentists.

Mr. Petersen notes that one of the keys to making a co-op like this work is to ensure that the practices represented in the date survey are comparable. All are general dentistry practices and up until recently, all were solo practitioners. The addition of associates to several practices is beginning to change the dynamics of the collective and Mr. Petersen is considering how to keep gross receipts from these practices from skewing the overall averages.

Mr. Petersen’s original efforts for the group were captured manually on ledger sheets. Now, with the advent of spreadsheets and computing technology, the task takes less time and simply requires plugging in current figures each year. The ease of preparing the data belies its usefulness. What one dentist sees as simply an average number, another may see as an indicator that his or her internal practices need to change. For others, the annual comparison leads to clarifying practice management goals. One practitioner confided that he aims to “be the most productive in the fewest number of hours.” Regardless of how the figures are used, there’s no doubt they are useful.

How could you benefit from a similar set of numbers developed for your local area? Think about it. Then, ask your accountant if she has enough dentist clients to consider starting something similar. Numbers do talk. But you have to have access to them to be able to listen. ■

The office lease: A practice asset often overlooked

Most dentists, whether they start a practice or buy an existing one, have to contend with a landlord and thus a lease. The focus, when a decision is made to open a dental office, is squarely on geographic location, equipment cost, staffing, future revenue and other dental-related issues. Too often the lease becomes an aside and gets signed without close scrutiny.

Let us assume you have done your market research and have decided that space in a particular office building or shopping center would be perfect to attract the patients you desire. You’ve spoken to the landlord or leasing agent of the building or shopping center, and he offers you a lease for the space that you intend to occupy over a significant number of years and to equip with the latest technology to help you develop a financially rewarding practice. The money you are investing either by establishing a practice or through the purchase of an existing practice is a significant investment.

The immediate question that arises is whether you should retain an attorney to review the lease, advise you on its implications for your future business and negotiate changes. Well, should an attorney come to you when he or she needs a crown?

There are valid reasons why you should invest in a legal review of your lease and pay close attention to what you are about to sign:

- Monthly rent payments are a sizable overhead expense in any office—it behooves you to reign in unexpected and future costs as much as possible;
- When it comes time to sell your practice, an unfavorable lease depresses the value of the practice; a favorable one increases the value. Any smart buyer will take the lease terms into account when making an offer to purchase your practice;
- The lease terms are a reflection of the landlord’s attitude toward his tenants, his building and his way of doing business—the lease terms presented often tell you in no uncertain terms if the landlord you are contemplating doing business with over a long period of time is reasonable and takes care of his tenants and his building.

Monthly rent payments

Even though you have negotiated monthly rent payments, you need to look very closely at the additional lease costs for which you will be responsible. If possible, they should be capped at fixed yearly percentage increases. Without caps—or at least the demand that the landlord adhere to reasonable upkeep fees and your right to inspect the landlord’s books to ensure their reasonableness—you are exposed to the whim of the landlord. If you, as the tenant, are obligated to pay all overhead costs such as maintenance fees, janitorial services, etc. without there being any controls in place, the landlord has no incentive to reign them in.

Sale of the practice

At one point or another you will have to market your practice. You might arrive at this decision in a reasoned manner or circumstances might force you into the decision—but it will happen. You should ensure that the lease you sign is not only assignable but reasonable. Normally, the landlord will insist on a clause ensuring that he has a say in who the lease will be assigned to, but that his consent to such an assignment cannot be unreasonably withheld. This stipulation makes sense since the landlord wants to ensure that the new assignee has the financial wherewithal to pay the rent and meet other lease obligations.

However, assignability of the lease will not be a positive for the sale of your practice unless the potential buyer is satisfied with its terms.

Landlord attitude

We all want to be able to work with people. A lease that gives the landlord all the rights (leaving you none) or states other unreasonable terms is indicative of a less than amicable future landlord/tenant relationship. Such a situation does not bode well for your enjoyment of your office, nor for attracting a future buyer for the office. Such a lease needs to be reevaluated.

Conclusion

A lease is an intricate part of the valuation of your practice. Because of the long-term lease arrangements which are typical for dental practice setups, the cost of equipping a dental practice and the difficulty in moving a dental practice, you should carefully evaluate a proposed lease, get legal advice and negotiate the terms diligently.

Your lease should be an asset that enhances the value of your practice, not a detriment. I have seen anticipated practice sales/purchases fail due to an unacceptable lease and the landlord’s unwillingness to negotiate more accommodating terms.

UIC honors Dr. Towns
CDS member Clarence Towns Jr., who practices in Chicago’s Chatham community, received the Distinguished Dental Alumnus Award at the recent University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) College of Dentistry Reunion—the College’s highest award.
Dr. Towns is a 1945 DDS graduate of the College. He earned his endodontics certificate from the College in 1965 and his MS in histology from UIC in 1975. As a faculty member from 1979 to 1988, Dr. Towns received a Golden Apple Award for teaching excellence.

UIC Oral Pathology Biopsy Service stresses diagnostics, speedy communication
The University of Illinois at Chicago has a new Oral Pathology Biopsy Service, which offers electronic communication, pick-up service, and diagnostic excellence.

The service, based at the UIC College of Dentistry, diagnoses conditions of the oral cavity, jaws, and surrounding areas by examining biopsy material submitted by clinicians. It serves dentists throughout the region and all the clinics at UIC.

“We save time for the busy clinician by using modern technology to streamline processes,” said director Dr. Sara Gordon, Associate Professor of Oral Pathology, Department of Oral Medicine and Diagnostic Sciences.

Within the UIC, clinicians page the service to pick up biopsies directly from the clinic, and biopsy results are posted directly into the patients AxiUm chart.

Outside UIC, a free courier service picks up cases and the dentist can receive the report via fax, e-mail or mail. All data is kept in a specially designed electronic database that can also keep track of digital radiographs and photos, as well as microscopic photographs of the cases. Dr. Gordon and Dr. Joel Schwartz in OMDS are the diagnosticians for the service.

“The College of Dentistry is a great place for the new service,” Dr. Gordon said. “A number of oral conditions are truly unique, particularly odontogenic and salivary gland lesions. There is special expertise that only a clinically experienced dentist trained in oral pathology can bring to oral biopsies. Because this is an academically based service, we are current in advances in the understanding of oral and maxillofacial disease, and share this knowledge with the clinicians.”

The new service is also beneficial for students. “We are able to sit down at the microscope with students, residents, and clinicians at the University to personally review interesting specimens, bringing another dimension to the education in oral pathology at UIC,” Dr. Gordon said.

A professional pathology billing service bills the services directly to the patient and/or the patient’s medical insurance. “Many patients have medical insurance but not dental insurance,” noted Dr. Gordon. “We hope that this will help them be reimbursed to a better degree. The billing service knows pathology billing and insurance claims inside out. We also accept Medicare and Medicaid.”

The fact is it’s gonna snow
December in Chicago guarantees only one thing: snow. We can expect 38 inches of the stuff this season, according to the National Weather Service, though the Farmers Almanac predicts we will see more than that this winter (cross your fingers that it’s not the record 89.7 inches the National Weather Service measured in 1978-79).

In the meantime, enjoy these unusual facts from the National Snow and Ice Data Center (www.nsidc.org):
• Each year an average of 105 snow-producing storms affect the continental United States. A typical storm will have a snow-producing lifetime of two to five days and will bring snow to portions of several states.
• In the early 1900s, skiers created their own terminology to describe types of snow, including the terms “fluffy snow,” “powder snow,” and “sticky snow.” Later, the terminology expanded to include descriptive terms such as “champagne powder,” “corduroy,” and “mashed potatoes.”
• Practically every location in the United States has seen snowfall. Even most portions of southern Florida have seen a few snow flurries.
• Snow kills hundreds of people in the United States each year. The primary snow-related deaths are from traffic accidents, overexertion and exposure, but deaths from avalanches have been steadily increasing.
• The greatest snowfall officially reported at the Phoenix, AZ, National Weather Service Office was one inch. That occurred twice. The first time was Jan. 20, 1933. It happened again four years later on the same date.
• In the western U.S., mountain snow pack contributes up to 75 percent of all year-round surface water supplies.
• The commonly used 10-to-one ratio of snowfall to water content is a myth for much of the United States. This ratio varies from as low as 100-to-one to as high as about three-to-one depending on the meteorological conditions associated with the snowfall.
December 7-13 is National Hand Washing Awareness Week—a practice that is especially important during the holiday party season and the winter cold season.

“Washing your hands is the most important thing you can do to stop the spread of germs and keep from getting sick,” said Sharon Canariato, a registered nurse and director of nursing practice at the Illinois Nurses Association. She offered several strategies for staying healthy this winter.

When should people wash their hands? Ms. Canariato said, “before making or eating food, when you’ve handled animal waste, when you’ve used the restroom, when you’ve handled trash, if you’ve changed a diaper, if you’ve blown your nose, and when you’re tending to any opening in the skin’s surface—even changing an earring.”

Visit www.henrythehand.com for more help to “spread the word, not the germs.”

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention lists more information at www.cdc.gov/od/oc/media/pressrel/fs021025.htm.

Washing your hands requires a little effort, but it’s worth it. Ms. Canariato says to wash your hands with soap and clean running water for 20 seconds—about the time it takes to sing “Happy Birthday” twice. If you are in a place where soap and water are not readily available, use an alcohol-based hand sanitizing gel.

As proof of the products’ worth, Ms. Canariato said that an increasing number of hospitals are using them in treatment and exam rooms. Several political candidates were spotted using sanitizing gels—discreetly—during the campaign season.

“Studies have proven that alcohol-based sanitizing gels are effective in decreasing the number of germs present, across different types of bacteria,” Ms. Canariato said. “What many people forget is that you have to keep rubbing it on your hands until your hands are dry.”

The most effective sanitizing solutions are those that contain at least 60 percent alcohol. They are safe to carry with you and safe for use by children as long as they do not digest the solution.

Non-alcohol-based sanitizing gels contain ammonia, which is not effective against the rhinovirus or norovirus, Ms. Canariato said.

Some users complain that alcohol gels dry out their skin. If you haven’t tried a sanitizing gel product lately, give them a second chance. Newer products are more gentle than previous formulas and contain more moisturizers than ever before.

If you’re a current user with dry skin, Ms. Canariato recommended going back to soap and water periodically, or else carrying lotion along with your hand sanitizing gel.

When you’re at a holiday party, make washing your hands—and staying healthy—a priority. There will be an inevitable amount of hand-shaking as you greet your guests or hosts, meet new people and catch up with old friends. Who knows when all those hands were last washed.

Ms. Canariato offered several strategies for successful party-going:

• Do not touch your face or mouth. In fact, hold your drink away from the mouthpiece (such as by the stem on a wine glass) to ensure your hands stay away from your mouth.

• When you arrive at a party, first greet everyone in the room. Then wash your hands. And then head for the appetizers so that you are not contaminating the food you will enjoy.

• Avoid picking up food with your hands, both at the buffet and while you are eating. If you use a spoon to serve yourself, and then a fork or toothpick to feed yourself, the food you enjoy with remain clean—even after you shake hands to greet your spouse’s coworkers.

• If you are hosting children in your home over a break from school, make hand washing a game before a snack or meal.

“Use every opportunity you have to educate and reeducate,” Ms. Canariato said. “What they’ll do is hold their hands up and say, ‘but look! My hands are clean!’ That’s when you talk about the tiny, tiny microscopic bugs that can make them sick.”

Schools now teach children to sneeze into the inside of their elbows—not their hands—to keep germs at bay. If you can’t get to a tissue in time to catch a sneeze, follow your child’s lead and bury your nose in your arm.
“Once upon a time, many years ago, in a far away kingdom, there lived a very silly king. The people of his kingdom call him ‘King Silly’. He was a really good king... did all the kingly things a king should do... in a kingly manner, of course. He had a weakness though... he loved sweets.”

In the early '70s, Florrie Mathews, the first Dental Health Education chair, was asked by the president of the Alliance of the Chicago Dental Society (previously known as the Auxiliary) to prepare a program for the group to promote dental health in the local schools. She decided that a puppet show for kids would be a great tool to promote dental health. And so she and her husband, Henry Mathews, searched for a local puppeteer, who could develop an oral health education show. They found one based near Dr. Mathews’ office.

“The puppeteer was very excited because he had never done anything in an educational way,” Mrs. Mathews said.

Mrs. Mathews gave the puppeteer materials from the ADA, and he prepared a puppet show for the ACDS. The show included eight characters ranging from a king with a sweet tooth to a talking toothbrush. The premise of the story was that the king’s tooth aches from eating too many sweets so Merlin the wizard makes a dentist appear from another time to teach the King about good oral health and attend to his tooth ache.

In order to learn how to work the puppets, Alliance members had training sessions with the puppeteer. They also had a rehearsal session almost every week in a dentist’s office to practice the 30-minute play. After Mrs. Mathews scheduled a few appointments, the Alliance started presenting the show in schools.

Before too long, many local schools had heard about the CDS’s puppet show teaching children about dental health.

“Not much was taught [about oral health] in the schools. There was a unit on teeth, but that wasn’t very in-depth at all,” Mrs. Mathews said. The puppet show was both educational and entertaining, so it was popular with educators and pupils alike. The Alliance received interesting replies from the schools and kids would send in dental-related artwork.

“The teachers were very impressed with the puppet show,” she commented. “It gave the message about brushing teeth, and how often you should brush, and all the answers to what children ask.”

Mrs. Mathews was the president of the Alliance for 1975-76. Her predecessor was Dorothy Unger, whose example served Mrs. Mathews well during her presidency, she said.

 “[Dorothy] was very forceful and so I learned in order for people to really want to do something like this, it’s important to have some very good plans. She seemed to know how to run a meeting and I picked up a few of her skills,” Mrs. Mathews said.

Her main goal while president was to promote dental health in other ways than what they had been doing, something she had already been doing while chairman of Dental Health Education.

“I think I did accomplish that. I felt that I had accomplished that at the end of my year,” Mrs. Mathews stated.

The puppet show was presented in schools for almost 20 years and taught many children the benefits of good oral health before the puppet characters retired.
Walter Webb Allport
An exceptional man leads an exceptional meeting for an exceptional organization
by Walter F. Lamacki, DDS

In 1859, 26 distinguished American dentists gathered at Niagara Falls, NY, for a conference, which led to the formation of the American Dental Association. The men selected prominent Chicago dentist Walter Webb Allport to chair the historic meeting.

Dr. Allport was born in Lorain, NY, in 1824. His family scratched out a meager living from a small farm, which they lost when Dr. Allport was 14 years old. With two silver dollars in his pocket, he struck out on his own and went to Watertown, NY, where he became an apprentice tailor. His kindly preceptor told him he had little talent for needle and scissors. After hearing that comment he was absent a few days, but he returned to the shop and declared, “I am going to learn the dental business.”

He studied medicine for two years in the office of a noted physician and in 1846 he entered the offices of Drs. Dunning and Randolph to study dentistry. In a short time, he became a partner of Dr. Randolph. He bounced across the state, opening offices as one might shed his clothes. Eventually he entered the New York Dental College, receiving a degree in 1853.

Dr. Allport arrived in Chicago in 1854 and opened a practice in an office where he shared space with a physician. He rented a barber chair, nailed a board to the wall and began his practice. He prospered and moved to a larger and more opulent office, as his practice drew the cream of Chicago society.

Dr. Allport’s work with gold foil was recognized nationally, and it was said that he was the first to use the material for the restoration of anterior teeth. Such was his reputation among his colleagues that they believed he received $200-$600 per restoration. Examination of his ledgers told a different story; his fees ranged from $10 to $60. Dentists from around the city would come to observe his techniques, which included holding his cotton pliers between his teeth. Where was OSHA when we needed them?

He was an early proponent of preventive dentistry, writing a number of pamphlets that were printed and distributed by this Chicago Dental Society. He received an honorary medical degree from Rush Medical College for his initiative to have physicians educate their patients in the importance of oral health. He taught operative dentistry at Rush and eventually at the Chicago College of Dentistry for a number of years.

Dr. Allport holds the distinction of being the ADA’s first president. And in 1886 he was elected president again, the only person to achieve that distinction.

Dr. Allport died in his home on Maple Street in the spring of 1893, while preparing a dental exhibit for the Colombian Exposition. He had organized the World’s Colombian Dental Congress, which was held in conjunction with the Colombian Exposition that summer.

ADA to celebrate 150 years
In 2009, the ADA will mark its sesquicentennial. Participants will commemorate, celebrate and communicate the ADA’s 150 year commitment to the health of the American public. Read the ADA News for special events and activities throughout the year and then come to Hawaii and be part of “a work so nobly begun.”

It was two vigilant volunteer teachers—who happened to also be studying dentistry at Northwestern University—who first noticed the severe lack of oral hygiene among their students at Chicago’s Fourth Presbyterian Church School in 1969.

Their concern, transformed into action, “became the legacy of succeeding junior and senior classes in the form of People’s Clinic,” reported the September 1973 issue of the CDS Review.

On Saturday mornings from September through June, two dozen children ages 3-15 trekked to the 13th floor of Northwestern’s Ward Building with a parent in one hand and $1 in the other. The parent was required to sign consent forms; the $1 illustrated that the care the children would receive was worth something and therefore important—though the fee was frequently waived.

“Neither the most abject poverty nor some dependence on public assistance dictates dental indigence,” Then-Northwestern University Dental School Associate Dean Juliann Bluitt said at the time. “Rather, it’s the product of a sharply limited budget coupled with a sort of innocent ignorance about the dangers of total oral neglect.” Dr. Bluitt served as president of the Chicago Dental Society in 1992-93.

The magazine reported: “People’s Clinic’s big accomplishment… is a consciousness of preventative oral hygiene instilled by the friendly visit to the dentist who teaches proper brushing. To make the point stick, children who return for additional care displaying neglected mouths encounter a week’s delay while they reapply the brushing techniques they’ve been taught.”

The dental students who taught these lessons at the People’s Clinic were organized by a board of seven student leaders. Volunteers spent Saturday mornings working in junior-senior pairs to provide radiographic exams, fluoride treatments and prophylaxis on a patient’s first visit. Subsequent visits could be scheduled for more extensive care.

Dr. Bluitt explained that student volunteers found a rich clinical experience, personal satisfaction and “a dimension of unique independence and opportunities to reach, motivate and educate people. We can evaluate our own effectiveness and see our successes and failures realistically.”

Chicago area dentists continue to give their time and talents to caring for Chicago’s youngest patients, especially during February, National Children’s Dental Health Month. The month-long celebration is the most popular community program run by the Chicago Dental Society, with hundreds of dentists and schools signing up each year to provide dental education, treatment and supplies to children. A centerpiece of the month is Give Kids a Smile Day, when dentists band together to care for children most at risk for dental disease.

Congratulations to Joseph Unger, who was installed as Illinois State Dental Society (ISDS) president at the Annual Session in September. Not since G.V. Black (1871) was followed by his son Arthur (1909) has ISDS had a father-son duo. Dorothy and Robert Unger (1973) are very proud of Joe’s accomplishments.

Brad Wright participated in the 2008 Chicago Accenture Triathlon. It was Brad’s first triathlon and his training paid off, with a finish of 17th of the 62 competitors in his class. Brad’s daughter Leslie also participated, finishing 10th of 79 in her class as a prelude to beginning law school at the University of Chicago in September.

Jim McCormick and Carlos Diaz-Albertini have welcomed Lora Chow into their endodontic practice. Lora received her DMD from the Tufts University School of Dental Medicine in 2006 and went on to do a post-graduate endodontics program at the University of Illinois at Chicago College of Dentistry (UIC). Jim and Carlos also announced the opening of their new Frankfort office.

Rick Schuberth is happy to announce that his daughter Jennifer has completed the dental hygiene program at Kennedy-King College. Anyone looking for a hygienist, call Rick.

Warren Fatland and Jerry Hewitt are happy to welcome Amber Wickstrom to their practice. Amber is a 2008 graduate of Kennedy-King College.

Alvin Atlas went to Lake Long Lodge with wife, B.J., and children Brian, Rachel and Brook. The family boated and just plain relaxed. Alvin and B.J. also attended the ISDS Board of Trustees retreat at Starved Rock.

Bill Cohen and his wife, Eileen, traveled to Israel in honor of the state’s 60th anniversary. They have been blessed with three grandchildren: Ryan, Brandon and Dylan.

Trucia Drummond took a primate trip to Rwanda. There she experienced the sightings of silverback gorillas and chimpanzees.

Jack Horbal is eagerly waiting for his daughter Kerstin to join him in his practice in June, after she graduates from the University of Illinois at Chicago College of Dentistry.

Marv Berman continues his speaking activities in Wichita, KS; Albany, NY; Charlotte, NC; and Thunder Bay, Ontario. Marv and his wife, Joyce, just celebrated their 50th anniversary, and they are very proud of their 10-year-old grandson, Jonah, who is starring at the Goodman Theater’s production of “Turn of the Century,” directed by Tommy Tune.

Marvin Greene has been appointed Chief of Dentistry at St. Joseph Hospital. David Hanson lectured on the topic of socket preservation to 20 dentists. Marvin and David are partners at the Lincoln Park Institute for oral and cosmetic surgery.

Steve Herzog, a partner from Oral Surgery Associates, just hired a new associate, Michael Papadimitriou. Congratulations!

Fred Margolis presented a lecture to the Russian American Dental Association in Boston. He also lectured on traumatic injuries to the North Suburban branch of CDS. Fred and his wife, Sue, were the hosts of Dr. Travel’s cruise to the Mediterranean in October.

Gilbert Parrott, on Sept. 11, went to St. Louis to accept an award from ISDS in recognition of outstanding programming and community service for Give Kids a Smile Day activities. The event was held in his office.

Joy Poskozim, says: “I am now a CRDTS board examiner. It has been a great experience and I look forward the years to come.”

Our next branch dinner meeting will be Tuesday, January 13. Nolen Levine will speak on the topic of periodontics and implantology. It will take place at Wildfire, 159 W. Erie St., at 6 p.m.

Special thank you to Fred Margolis for his informative presentation, “Traumatic Injuries to Tots and Teens,” at the branch’s 2008-09 inaugural season dinner/lecture.

Congratulations to Dorothy Anasinski on being appointed assistant clinical professor for the UIC Department of Periodontics. Her expertise in periodontal surgical procedures will be her instructional focus for the department residents. Additionally, Dr. Anasinski has been elected vice president of the Polish American Medical Society (PAMS), and appointed chair of the Dental Study Club of the PAMS.

Toni Wolf is an “empty nester” since her daughter went off to Iowa State University. Her biggest challenge now, is what to do with her daughter’s bedroom—after she cleans it out. Good luck!

Mart McClellan recently gave the keynote address to the Graduate Orthodontic Residents Program (GORP) at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. He spoke to more than 500 people on the topic of “Change in an Ever-Changing World.” It was the 20th anniversary of GORP, and it is the largest event for orthodontic residents in the country.

SEASON TICKET PLAN

North Suburban: (L-R) Branch Correspondent Yendis Gibson, Program Chair Susan Graber, Vice President Marita Janzen, Treasurer James Benz, President-elect Mark Jacob, President Maria Fe Corpuz-Bato and Secretary Astrid Schroetter.
We welcomed U.S. Navy dentists from Naval Station Great Lakes at our branch’s Oct. 7 meeting. A heartfelt thank you to Captains David Rickey and Neil Lynch, and Lieutenants Katherine Cheng, Katherine Davis, Peter Hammes, James O’Brien, Andrea Sarge and Angela Sessa for coming. Here’s hoping you become regular attendees.

In July, Michele Bogacki took her family on an Alaskan cruise. They took a trip aboard the F/V Aleutian Ballad, the same boat that took a rogue wave in the Discovery Channel’s Deadliest Catch. In addition to enjoying the amazing landscape, whales and American eagles, Michele was able partake in a pharmacology update course sponsored by her alma mater, the University of Iowa.

Jeff Wittmus again traveled to Armenia near the Iranian border to care for orphaned children who were enjoying the improved conditions and safety thanks to our troops and the great job they are doing in the Middle East. On the return trip, Jeff visited friends in Rome. Since returning to the USA, Jeff has traveled twice to the Scottsdale Center for Dentistry to continue his two-year Christenson Fellowship program.

Eva Fortsas wants everyone to know that for the past three years she has been busy raising a family and taking care of her two beautiful girls, Anna (3) and Katie (1). Hopefully she will soon be able to rejoin and participate in the branch meetings like she used to do.

Tom Schneider and his son Peter, 16, were in Door County the weekend after Labor Day. They completed the Door County Century, an organized 100-mile bicycle ride which tours the county. They were in the saddle for seven hours, making four rest stops along the way. Congratulations to Tom and Peter for

As the business of dentistry keeps us busy throughout the fall, there is news to report from the Northwest Suburban Branch. On the business front, Russ Pollina proudly announces his new associate, Joyce Koh. Joyce is a recent UIC graduate and is also a pediatric dentist. Welcome aboard, Joyce.

NORTHWEST SUBURBAN: Alan Moltz took his family to Hawaii this past summer. Pictured (L-R) are Lindsey Moltz and her friend Nicole Knecht, Alan, Linda and Eric.

President Profile
Edward Segal, DDS | NORTHWEST SUBURBAN

Dr. Segal earned his dental degree in 1990 from the State University of New York at Buffalo. He completed his specialty degree in periodontics in 1994 at the University of Maryland at Baltimore.

Family: Dr. Segal lives in Buffalo Grove with his wife, Michelle, and two sons, Joshua (10) and Noah (7).

Hobbies: He enjoys coaching baseball, working with computers, sailing and skiing.

What is the role of branch president? “As branch president, my role is to help maintain current friendships and foster new relationships between branch members, as well as provide excellent continuing education programs at the local level, which is a great benefit of CDS membership. I also want to provide a venue where members can hear from leaders in organized dentistry and have an opportunity to respond.”

In golf news, perennial Suburban Scramble golf outing powerhouse Tim Brouder tied for the club championship at Mount Prospect Golf Club. All the Northwest Suburban Branch golfers should keep an eye out for Tim next summer at the annual golf outing.

A couple of members took some interesting vacations over the summer. Jeff Eaton and his wife vacationed in Northern California. They rode through San Francisco and the California coast on their bicycles. Jeff says it was a vacation he will never forget.

Alan Moltz, his wife, Linda, and the children, Lindsey and Eric, traveled to Hawaii. They enjoyed a two-week, three-island memorable get-away. Maui was the overwhelmingly favorite island during the Moltz family adventure.

Congratulations to Jack Lane on the birth of another grandchild. Evan James Lane was born in May. Jack loves spending time with his grandchildren and says they have been keeping him busy.

If you are a Northwest Suburban Branch member and have any news you want to share with our colleagues, please notify me at 847.255.7080 or send an e-mail to perkinsonw@yahoo.com.

The South Suburban Branch held its first meeting of the fall Oct. 14 at Idlewild County Club. The course title was “Political Night: Legislative Update with Illinois State Representatives.” We had such a positive response from our branch members when we hosted the meeting last fall that we wanted to host it again. Representatives Renée Kosel (R-Mokena), David Miller (D-Dolton) and George Scully Jr. (D-Crete) were present! Rep. Kosel is the wife of Alfred Kosel and the mother of Eric Kosel (both of whom are branch members) providing her with, shall we say, “close to home exposure and experience” when it comes to some of the issues facing dentistry today. On behalf of the South Suburban Branch, I thank the Kosel family for all their efforts and dedication to organized dentistry!

The meeting provided a unique opportunity for our members to interact with these local politicians regarding issues that affect us not only as small business owners and dentists but as citizens of Illinois, as well.

The meeting reminds all of us how important organized dentistry is to the vitality and future of our profession. Organized dentistry is what allows us to have a voice when it comes to policy and regulation changes that could affect our ability to provide excellent care for our patients.
Rep. Scully had nothing but positive things to say when he addressed the group regarding the way our profession is viewed in Springfield. He mentioned that every time an issue is brought to the legislature on behalf of dentistry it is one of “good public policy issues” and not one of the typical “pocketbook” issues.

This is a topic we hope to cover at a branch meeting every year! Mark your calendar for next year’s Capital Conference in Springfield, April 22-23.

The South Suburban Branch Board of Directors reached a unanimous decision to elect Dominik Dubravec as the new secretary and LeRoy Weathersby as the new treasurer to replace Neelima Chiru, who is moving to Atlanta and resigning her position as secretary.

Also in October, Ron Testa, Rich Holba and CDS President Todd Cubbon served in the House of Delegates at the ADA Annual Session in San Antonio. Rob Manasse represented CDS by doing PR with exhibitors to help expand the CDS Midwinter Meeting.

In late July, Rich Mantoan and his wife, Karen, and son Adam all traveled to Urbania, Italy, for nine days to visit his daughter Kathryn, who is a graduate student at Roosevelt University’s Chicago College of Performing Arts. She was participating in a five-week “Italian Operatic Experience” program. Rich and Karen saw her perform in several opera scenes, and the finale was a performance of La Bohème. Rich and his family also made day trips to Assisi, Gubbio, San Marino and San Benedetto del Tronto, a great Adriatic beach town from where Karen’s family hails.

Also in July, Branch President Spencer Pope climbed to the top of Mt. Kilimanjaro in Tanzania. Mt. Kilimanjaro is one of the top seven summits of the world, and is the tallest mountain in Africa at 19,340 feet. It was especially memorable because Spencer reached the top along with his father, Ken. Afterward, they rejuvenated with a three-day safari, seeing all of the “Big 5” big game animals, as well as many others.

Beth Damas and her husband, Scott Kasper, just had their first baby on Oct. 2. Her name is Caroline Elizabeth Kasper. She was a stunning 7 pounds, 3 ounces and 20 inches. The baby is healthy and doing great, but grandpa John Damas is already spoiling her.

Fellow member Richard Stiles married his beautiful wife Shannon Reidy Sept. 6 right here in Chicago. Congratulations Richard and Shannon. Now remember: marriage is when two become one. The only problem sometimes is determining which one.

If anyone has any news or photos that they would like to submit, please e-mail me at joai71@aol.com.

As I write this column, the fall color change is rapidly upon us, bringing with it a beautiful palette of colors. I always have mixed feelings at this time of year: I love the season but I know what awaits not far ahead.

Leading off, the West Side Branch extends kudos to Gary Clemens for his many years of outstanding and tireless service as Dinner Chair. Gary took over in September 2002 and has held this position ever since, while our meetings have been held at The Homestead, Brunetti’s, and now for several years at the Carleton. His position is vital to the smooth operation of our branch meetings, but at the same time demanding and rather thankless. Gary has handled things smoothly and efficiently for these many years. Hats off to Gary for a job well done!

Speaking of Gary, he and his wife, Connie, are proud to announce that their daughter Erin is now a freshman at Marquette University School of Dentistry. Erin is settling in nicely and states that a good number of her classmates are also the sons and daughters of Illinois dentists. Gary says that summer vacation this year consisted of finding good housing in close proximity to the school, and then getting Erin settled in prior to the start of classes.

Speaking of freshman dental students, Christine and Henry Fung are pleased to announce that their daughter Stephanie is a member of the freshman dental class at the University of the Pacific in San Francisco. Stephanie already has her sights set on becoming... an orthodontist. It is wonderful to see the proud tradition of dentistry being carried on in our families.

Henry also reports that he and Christine attended the annual meeting of the American Association of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons held in September in Seattle. Henry reports that the meeting was excellent and they also briefly checked out a few of the city’s highlights.

Charu and Kamal Vibhakar traveled to Beijing on a six-day adventure to attend the Olympics. The hotel they stayed at also housed some of the U.S. athletes, so they had the opportunity to meet and speak with several Olympians. While in China, Kamal and Charu also visited the Great Wall of China and the Forbidden City. Kamal traveled west in September to Mt. Daniels (8,000 feet) in the Cascade Mountain Range, about an hour out of Seattle, where he participated in an intense four-day program of mountain climbing. Kamal had previously hiked trails leading to the summit of Mt. Kilimanjaro and to base camp at Mt. Everest—however, he said that this climbing adventure on rocks and snow was the most demanding yet!

Sue and Chuck Thometz also traveled west in September to attend the 50th reunion of Chuck’s dental school graduating class in Portland, OR. The reunion was very special and a wonderful spirit of warmth and camaraderie prevailed. Inasmuch as Chuck and Sue celebrated part of their honeymoon in Seattle 46 years ago, they took the opportunity to spend a couple of days revisiting Seattle, as well as checking out the spectacular Oregon Coast.

Jim Bryniarski is and has been very busy as the Program Chair for the 2009 Midwinter Meeting and is currently on tour with Dave Kumamoto visiting the other branches and talking up the Midwinter Meeting. Thus we will not see Jim at any of our own branch meetings until March.

Jim was recently honored by UIC as the recipient of the 2007 F. William Towner Award, which is given annually to one individual for significant and meritorious activities for organized dentistry.

At the same time, Mike Stablein was honored as the recipient of the 2006 F. William Towner Award, one year late. Our man Mike is so busy these days he can’t find time to receive his own awards.

Jim and his wife, Leona, tell us that their son Jeff is currently in Galveston, TX, working as an environmental engineer to assist in the cleanup following the significant damage to the area inflicted by Hurricane Ike. Jeff is employed by Weston Solutions and is working in connection with the Federal Environmental Protection Agency to assist in this massive undertaking.

Jim also reports that their daughter Emilia has begun her veterinary technician education at Fox College. Her position when her education is completed will be comparable in veterinary medicine to the position of a dental hygienist in dental medicine.

Dean Politis traveled to San Antonio in May for the Texas State Dental Meeting. While there, he gave a two-day presentation on periodontics, including a half-day hands-on course on surgical/perio techniques. Dean and his wife, Georgia, also proudly announce that their daughter Christine graduated in May with honors in biology from Oberlin College. Christine is currently working at Hines VA Hospital in Maywood, in the Neuro-Biology Department doing stem cell research.

Organized dentistry was saddened by the death of Seymour Yale Aug. 28. Dr. Yale served as dean of the UIC College of Dentistry for 22 years, from 1965 to 1987. Dr. Yale remained active in a variety of capacities after his retirement as dean. His contributions to dentistry, medicine and public health, as well as the many awards he received, are too numerous to mention here. However, perhaps his most notable contribution was in obtaining the federal funding necessary for construction of the present dental school. He also participated in the design of and the oversight of the actual construction of the dental school, which took place in 1972, during his tenure as Dean.

As a testimonial to Dr. Yale I quote from George Zehak: “I will miss all of the wonderful luncheons and times I was allowed to spend with my dean, my mentor and my beloved friend. He inspired me greatly and always taught me to reach for a higher star and to never give up and keep going for my dreams.”

I strongly encourage all of our members old and new alike to come to our monthly meetings. In addition to keeping current, we are able to rekindle old friendships, make new friendships and, at the same time, help satisfy our continuing education requirements.

With the wonderful holiday season fast approaching here is wishing all of you good cheer, good health and much happiness during this special time of year.

Auf wiederschein for now.

West Suburban
Douglas Kay, DDS

Beginning with ancient history, a number of West Suburban Branch members braved the sweltering temperatures of the South, the remnants of Hurricane Ike, and baseball’s Cardinal fans to be delegates to the ISDS House of Delegates in St. Louis, Sept. 12-14. Our own branch president, Jim Maragos, seemed to be popping up all over: at the ballpark before the Annual Session, running the meet-the-legislators lunch, being a member of Reference Committee A, and staying awake during the House of Delegates meetings. CDS Vice President Ian Elliott chaired Reference Committee A. Andy Brower and Don Kipper represented the Chicago District as trustees. Former ISDS president and shadow of the old bridge and on the cobblestoned bank of the Mississippi River there is a small memorial to the explorers, Lewis and Clark. Rounding out the delegates in the largest CDS branch were Bob Banks, Branch Clinic Night Chair Doug Chang, CDS Treasurer John Gerding, Pete Hasiakos, Branch Treasurer Paul Kempf, Branch Director Bill Kleiber, Diane Kleiber, Branch President-elect Mark Ploskonka, Dan Weber, Branch Librarian Derrick Williamson and your correspondent.

During the Legislative Sessions there were a lot of internal housekeeping issues; some public relations and promotional incentives passed, but we heard only two votes against the $20 ISDS dues increase for 2009.

Our branch’s first meeting at the Marriott Oak Brook Hills was held Oct 14. Legislators’ Night was a great success. It was comforting to see all the regulars, some new faces, some we haven’t seen for a while and promising dental students already benefitting from organized dentistry.

Four west suburban legislators attended. State Rep. Betty Bellock (R-Westmont) spoke early and left for a previous commitment. Then-State Senators Christine Radogno (R-Lamont) and Kirk Dillard (R-Westmont) and State Rep. Sandra Pihos (R-Glen Ellyn) engaged in a question-and-answer session with branch members. By the end of the evening it felt more like the proverbial kitchen table give-and-take, but without the yelling. It appears we all learned what the other side didn’t know. We dentists were encouraged to follow up and keep our senators and representatives informed.

In other news, Douglas Chang and his staff traveled to Salt Lake City for a four-day UltraDent hands-on seminar series. They also got to see summertime ski jumpers at the Olympic Park in Park City.

President Profile

James Maragos, DDS | WEST SUBURBAN

Dr. Maragos earned his dental degree in 1981 from the Loyola University School of Dentistry. He completed his General Practice Residency at Loyola Hospital in 1982.

Family: Dr. Maragos lives in Western Springs with his wife, Mary, and son Andrew (16). He has two sons in college: Michael (18) is a freshman at the University of Miami in Florida; Nick (22) is a first-year student at the DePaul University College of Law in Chicago.

Hobbies: He enjoys golf, tennis, bicycling, singing in his church choir and politics.

What is the role of branch president? “I view my role as branch president is to bring people together to learn and share information in order to help us perfect our knowledge and skills and to enjoy our profession. I want to act as an ambassador to represent dentistry to the public and to our government officials. I encourage all our dental colleagues to join our dental society and our political action committees.”

bon vivant Dean Nicholas regaled the masses with his customary humor.

From the ISDS headquarters hotel you could walk literally across the street to the St Louis Arch, and those who are not claustrophobic not only got a great view from on top but also found that the lower level has a very informative museum with lots of exhibits and historical information about the U.S. from the time of the Louisiana Purchase to the present. Just beyond the Arch in the shadow of the old bridge and on the cobblestoned bank of the Mississippi River there is a small memorial to the explorers, Lewis and Clark. in three hours. He said it was just too hot there—even in the beginning of October—to stay on land.

Bill and Diane Kleiber are happy to report that their newly graduated son Grant (MD from the University of Southern California) has married his classmate, Bethany, and has returned to Chicago. Grant is in a plastic surgery residency at the University of Chicago and Bethany is a Northwestern psychiatry resident.

In the soon to be more dentists news, Marty Sanders of Lombard reports that his son David will (hopefully) be graduating next summer from the UIC College of Dentistry and his daughter Leslie participated in a “White Coat Ceremony” as an inauguration into the University of Texas Dental School. Leslie was evacuated and the school was closed for 10 days due to Hurricane Ike.

Be sure to call our dinner chair, Dottie Mackie, at 630.515.1414 to reserve your place at future meetings.

Keep sending me your news, otherwise I’ve got to make it up. E-mail news and photos to dbbusters@aol.com or mail it to 1200 S. York Rd., Suite 3110, Elmhurst, IL 60126.

For Sale by Owner

ESTABLISHED FAMILY PRACTICE for sale in Northwest Indiana. Are you looking for a fabulous dental practice? Do you want to have a great lifestyle away from the hectic traffic and hassle of a big city, yet live only an hour away from one of the best big cities in the world? Do you want an established practice that could nearly catapult you to your ideal income? I am now interviewing applicants to take over this love of mine - the practice that has been in my family for nearly 50 years. I will lend that good name to the qualified applicant who is committed to doing dentistry the right way and serving my practice members the right way. I am here to help as much as you need. You'll benefit from my nearly 30 years of training in clinical and management of private care practice - both Pankey and Misch-trained. The natural question is: If it’s so good, why are you leaving? There’s a simple answer: I have decided to commit myself to a full-time implant surgical practice in another location. This practice could be just the thing you are looking for right now, but not just anyone will do. It’s a small town setting with big city advantages - a great place to raise a family, like I did. The potential in this practice is great as I have only been running it three days a week. ($710K in collection with a five-week vacation) This is going to be a real sweetheart of a deal for the right applicant. Are you the one? E-mail me at langlis@xvi.net.

YES, WE BUY DENTAL PRACTICES...BUT more importantly: We offer a continuum of ongoing clinical leadership alternatives for sellers. We provide long-term job security and excellent benefits for staff. We ensure continuity of care for you patients. We deliver full-service practice administration support. We are a 100% cash buyer; no seller financing on other contingencies. Supporting doctors and dental practices since 1968, the team at Midwest Dental seeks to conservatively expand our family of clinics in the Illinois market. We would appreciate the opportunity to speak with successful owners and associates about their transition alternatives—including free, confidential, zero-obligation practice valuation. Please contact Sean Epp, Director of Investments, at 715.579.4188 or sepp@midwest-dental.com. We look forward to hearing from you!

DECEMBER 2008 CDS REVIEW 47
I thought I had seen it all... that is, until a new (?) wrinkle (pun intended) reared its ugly head.

Two ads for dental seminars on injectible botulinum toxin (Botox) therapeutics recently crossed my desk.

The subjects cited in the ads included: how to smooth lines and eliminate wrinkles; lip sculpting; volume enhancement and lifting the corners of the mouth, among a litany of other questionable treatments.

One course offers direction on how to partner with a physician in a medical-dental spa and “legally” bill through a medical corporation. Another promises help in securing liability insurance. And another guarantees making the practice compliant with the Dental Practice Act.

You are promised a 156-page manual, handy detailed technique sheets to use during procedures and a telephone number to call if you get stuck in the middle of a procedure.

You can tape the assembly (oops I meant treatment sheets) on a nearby wall in the operatory to refer to during procedures. I would also suggest that you wear a Bluetooth telephone while blissfully injecting because you may need to be talked down, reminiscent of bad movies in which an airport traffic controller safely talks down a hysterical passenger thrown into the pilot’s seat by fate.

The courses don’t come cheap. They range from $2,195 to $4,580. But again, it’s less costly than a medical education, not to mention specialty training.

All of this would be laughable if it were not for these courses receiving Program Approval for Continuing Education (PACE) from the Academy of General Dentistry (AGD). I am assured by Illinois leaders of AGD that they are addressing the problem.

Barbara Mousel, State of Illinois Dental Examiner and a CDS member, cautions that course instructors may not demonstrate on live patients unless they hold a valid Illinois license. The state of California Dental Board ruled that the use of Botox was illegal by dentists. They have since modified their ruling to allow the use of Botox by oral surgeons in certain instances, especially trauma.

The course guides the participants in how to comply with practice acts, how to bill through medical plans and how to file insurance claims; that implicitly tells me there are serious legal problems with this practice. There is no point mentioning those nits, morality and ethics; it’s likely the entrepreneurs are not familiar with either of them.

Besides offering Botox, aromatherapy, massages, chiropractics and voodoo, I wouldn’t be surprised if dental-medical spas are soon offering tummy-tucks. I await anxiously the next exciting expansion of the dental practice.

By the way, there is a moral and ethical pathway to doing plastic surgery: go to medical school.
A Potpourri of Dental Pharmacology

Featuring Harold Crossley, DDS, PhD

Wednesday, January 21
9 a.m.-2:30 p.m. • Drury Lane, 100 Drury Lane, Oakbrook Terrace

About our program:
Dr. Crossley will provide the nuts and bolts of practical pharmacology that is useful to the dental practice. Using the top 50 most prescribed drugs as a template, Dr. Crossley will discuss the control of post-operative pain, the drug of choice for orofacial infections, the prophylaxis guidelines for cardiac and/or orthopedic prosthesis patient, the current information on bisphosphonate-induced osteonecrosis, as well as potentially harmful drug interactions. Dr. Crossley will also discuss the most commonly abused prescription and street drugs.

About our speaker:
Dr. Crossley is a professor emeritus at the University of Maryland Dental School. He has co-authored numerous articles as well as four books covering a variety of topics within the field of pharmacology. A consultant to law enforcement agencies since 1974, including the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency, Dr. Crossley is an internationally recognized expert on street drugs and chemical dependency, as well as the clinical pharmacology of dental drugs.

CE credits: 5 CE hours

Target audience: Dentists, dental hygienists and dental assistants

About CDS meetings:
Regional Meetings are FREE to all CDS members and their staff, as well as dental hygienist members of the Illinois State Dental Society.

A fee of $250 is charged to dentists who are not CDS members and their staff, which may be applied to membership for the current year. Advance registration is not required, but CDS encourages you to pre-register online at www.cds.org.

CDS Regional Meetings are recognized by the ADA CERP as a provider of continuing education.
